Doing Business in Russia Part I: The Russian economy today

Posted: 31 Aug 2011 09:03 AM PDT

This is the first post in a series highlighting KPMG's annual "Doing Business in Russia" report.

The introductory section of KPMG's Doing Business in Russia report focuses on Russia's investment climate and sets the tone for those who wish to do business there. This section also provides insight for those not familiar with the country and its recent developments on the innovation and modernization front while offering tips to those who seek to live and work in the country.

An introduction the Russian economy today

First school day kicks off new year in Russian education

Posted: 01 Sep 2011 01:28 PM PDT

As in many other countries, September 1 is the first day of school in Russia. It is also a national celebration reflecting the country's long intellectual and scientific traditions. Since education is central to a country's competitiveness in the global economy, Modern Russia used the occasion to look back at recent improvements in the Russian education system.

The rise of modern Russian women in business

Posted: 01 Sep 2011 09:05 AM PDT

When I find myself in front of an audience of Russian civil servants or entrepreneurs, I admit that I often stand out — a young businesswoman who talks about innovation and serves as an investor and consultant for startup projects. Almost all the large enterprises and government agencies in Russia have traditionally been run by men, while women have often been relegated to supporting functions, such as marketing, finance or HR.
